

STILL OPEN TO MEET YOUR NEEDS!

What should you know about community organizations in red zones?

- They remain open and follow the directives issued by the public health authorities.
- Some activities could be modified. Check before going.
- You may not enter the premises if either you or your child presents symptoms related to COVID-19.

In the event of an outbreak (positive test result)

If a child or parent using the organization's services receives a positive test result, anyone considered to be at moderate or high risk will be contacted promptly by the public health authorities. If an outbreak occurs in the organization, the people in charge will also inform the public health authorities.
